The Ginevra Table Lamp is a study in contrasts. The ceramic body in a lush reactive olive is the focal point of the composition because the other design details have been left light and airy. The optic crystal base and finial, for instance, all but disappear when the lights are not switched on; when illumination is wafting from beneath the vanilla linen shade, these effervesce to glint brightly. To complete the beautiful contradiction, the ribbed body of the lamp also glows but it casts warmth rather than coolness thanks to the lush green hue of its surface.
