The grainy lines that meander along the out-of-focus areas of an antique black and white photograph inspired us to choose the name for our Bokeh Table Lamp, which is made of cast aluminum. The pattern threading around the tall, slim column was created with a mix of gray antique and matte brass finishes. The matte brass circlets of metal at the top and bottom of the lamp draw out the wavering lines, while the black base echoes the darker tones in the column. We have topped this fixture with a tan linen drum shade.
