There is a refinement to classical design that is unmistakable when it appears, and though our Achmore Chandelier exhibits the tell-tale gracefulness, it has been made modern by the design details our team chose to give it. The stems that flow down past the arms that curve up, the rectangular accents as the two are attached and the subtle details on the stem, all made of metal in a silver leaf finish, bring this fixture into contemporary times. The black parchment shades with silver foil interiors are as classic as they come.
